

Afterschool Progress Report and Consumer Guide: North Carolina

How North Carolina is Helping to Keep the Lights on After School

Afterschool in North Carolina

North Carolina parents are happy with their afterschool care - if they have access to it. Six in 10 parents (64 percent) report that they are extremely satisfied overall with the afterschool program their child attends. However, North Carolina trails the national average in afterschool and summer participation, and far too many youth spend time unsupervised. North Carolina youth could greatly benefit from state leaders' increased attention to afterschool availability so that all children have access to quality afterschool opportunities.

Growth in Afterschool Participation

North Carolina	2004	2009
Percentage of Kids in Afterschool Programs	10%	12%
Percentage of Kids in Self Care	22%	31%
Percentage of Parents Extremely/Somewhat Satisfied with Afterschool Program	93%	86%
Percentage of Kids Who Would Participate if an Afterschool Program were Available	28%	36%
Percentage of Kids in Summer Learning Programs	--	18%

Based on the FY2011 funding level and an average per student cost of $1000, 21st Century Community Learning Centers (21st CCLC) can serve 29,258 students in North Carolina. However, that is only a small fraction of the 524,633 kids in North Carolina who are eligible to participate in a 21st CCLC program, if more funding were available.

Leading State for Afterschool with Room to Grow

"It is not enough to send our kids to school and hope they learn what they need to do to go on to college and a career. It's not enough simply to wish our children would stay out of trouble when we can't be with them. Afterschool participants receive better grades, miss fewer days of school, and have higher high school graduation rates."

Consumer Guide: North Carolina

For many adults in America, thinking about the hours after the school day ends conjures up memories of doing homework, playing pick-up basketball, taking guitar or dance lessons or going home to Mom and a snack. But for millions of children today, those images are nothing like their reality. In fact, each day in America, more than 15 million children—some as young as 5 years old—are without supervision at home or on the streets.

The Afterschool Alliance has a host of resources that can help ensure that your child can enjoy the safe environment and proven academic and social gains that afterschool programs can afford.

Methodology:

The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides are sponsored by jcpenney. Scores for the Progress Reports were devised using a range of factors falling under three major categories: Growth in Afterschool Participation, Developments in State Afterschool Policy and Funding and Advancements in State Afterschool Leadership. Data from the America After 3PM survey, also sponsored by jcpenney, was used in assessing the afterschool participation portion of the Progress Reports. Between March and May 2009, 29,754 parents/guardians were surveyed for America After 3PM. The remainder of the Progress Reports and Consumer Guides were created utilizing up to date policy and leadership developments obtained from afterschool leaders in the states, most notably the forty statewide afterschool networks. The 2011 State-by-State Progress Reports and Consumer Guides reflect the data and resources available at the time of their release in October 2011.
