WASHINGTON, D.C. – To raise awareness about the need for more afterschool programs and advance funding for quality afterschool care, both houses of Congress passed resolutions supporting the goals and ideals of Lights On Afterschool, the national rally for afterschool that includes more than 7,000 events in the U.S. and around the world this week. The fifth annual Lights On Afterschool is the largest afterschool rally ever held, involving hundreds of thousands of students, parents, educators, lawmakers, business leaders and community members. This is the first time Congress has passed resolutions in support of the event.

In the resolutions, Congress declares October 14, 2004 Lights On Afterschool Day. Senators Barbara Boxer (D-CA), Christopher Dodd (D-CT), Olympia Snowe (R-ME), Arlen Specter (R-PA) and Debbie Stabenow (D-MI) and Representatives Dale Kildee (D-MI) and Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL) led the efforts to pass them.

“We welcome the resolutions in support of Lights On Afterschool,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Judy Y. Samelson. “Americans want more funding for the afterschool programs that keep kids safe, help working families and inspire children to learn. Funding for the federal 21st Century Community Learning Centers initiative has been stalled for four years, and is now just half of what was authorized in the No Child Left Behind Act. We hope this will help build momentum for the afterschool funding increases that families need.”

Lights On Afterschool this year will bring lawmakers together with community leaders to explore ways to create more afterschool programs and sustain those already operating. The event’s 2004 National Presenting Sponsor is the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation and the JCPenney Afterschool Fund is a National Sponsor of the event. The David and Lucile Packard Foundation and the Open Society Institute are providing additional support. California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger is National Chair of Lights On Afterschool again this year.
