The Afterschool Alliance today announced many of the cities that will be included in the first-ever Lights On Afterschool Traveling Light Bulb Tour. The giant, inflatable light bulb and an accompanying special mural for children’s art debuted on September 30 at a rally for afterschool in Dallas, Texas, headquarters of JCPenney, and is heading across the country. The JCPenney Afterschool Fund is the National Presenting Sponsor of the sixth annual Lights On Afterschool, the nation’s largest rally for afterschool programs.

The Traveling Light Bulb Tour will make stops in Southwestern, Midwestern, Southern and Northern states during the first three weeks in October, on its way to Washington, D.C. The mural will be an ever-changing testament to the creativity and talent of afterschool students, with students in each city on the tour adding their own artwork to the mural. The tour will end on October 20 when the light bulb and mural arrive at the U.S. Capitol.

“The traveling light bulb mural will bring children’s art to our national policy makers, showcasing some of the wonderful things that happen in afterschool programs,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “Whether they live in Albuquerque, Chicago, Wichita or Miami, kids everywhere need afterschool programs.”
