Kentucky Department of Education Official Honored as an Afterschool Champion in Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Afterschool Alliance today honored Linda Robinson, 21st Century Community Learning Centers Program Consultant in the Community Support for Students & Families Branch of the Kentucky Department of Education, for her support for afterschool programs at the "Breakfast of Champions," a gala event in Washington, D.C. Robinson was one of 16 individuals and four organizations honored for their tireless work on behalf of afterschool programs. She was nominated by the Kentucky Statewide Afterschool Network.

Robinson has worked for the Department of Education for 17 years and, in that time, helped to establish Parent Resource Centers for parents of children with disabilities statewide, worked closely with the Cabinet for Health and Family Services on behalf of the Family Resource Youth Service Centers and served as a trainer in the School Age Leadership Institute.

Currently, she serves on the Board of the Kentucky Coalition for School Age Child Care and was instrumental in expanding the state's 21st Century Community Centers afterschool programs so that they could serve more children and families. Robinson has convened a Statewide 21st Century Community Learning Center Advisory Committee, which has developed trainings for afterschool practitioners and increased public awareness of the need for afterschool programs. She also facilitated the application process with many stakeholders to secure the newly-funded Kentucky Afterschool Network.

The "Breakfast of Champions" is part of the seventh annual Afterschool for All Challenge which brings together hundreds of parents, educators, children, program directors and advocates from around the country for a series of events and meetings with Members of Congress. The 2008 Challenge is co-sponsored by the National League of Cities and the Afterschool Alliance. Following the "Breakfast," the advocates fanned out across Capitol Hill for meetings with their U.S. Senators and Representatives, and congressional staff.

"Parents, children and communities rely on afterschool programs to keep kids safe, inspire them to learn and help working families," said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. "But federal funding isn't keeping up with the demand for afterschool, and President Bush proposes to cut federal afterschool funding even further. We're in our nation's capital this week to honor afterschool champions and remind lawmakers that these cuts are short-sighted and counterproductive. All kids need the opportunities that afterschool programs provide. Bipartisan support in Congress defeated the last proposed cut to afterschool programs, and we are seeking bipartisan support again this year so we can counter the President’s proposal and bring quality afterschool programs to all children who need them.”

This year, President Bush proposed cutting the federal budget for afterschool programs by $281 million and converting the successful 21st Century Community Learning Centers afterschool initiative (21st CCLC) into a risky voucher system. If Congress agrees to his proposal, 300,000 students would lose access to afterschool programs.

Other state champions honored at the Afterschool for All Challenge are: Boise Mayor David Bieter; Columbia Mayor Bob Coble; St. Paul Mayor Christopher Coleman; Kacy Conley, YMCA of Central Maryland in Baltimore; Omaha Mayor Mike Fahey; Grand Rapids Mayor George Heartwell; Savannah Mayor Otis Johnson; Morgantown Mayor Ron Justice; Charlotte City Council Member James Mitchell; Missouri State Representative Danie Moore; New York City Commissioner of the Department of Youth and Community Development Jeanne Mullgrav; San Francisco Mayor Gavin Newsom; New Hampshire State Senator Kathleen Sgambati; Maxine Quintana, Denver Mayor’s Office for Education and Children; and Pennsylvania State Representative Jake Wheatley.

The Afterschool Alliance and MetLife Foundation also presented the first-ever MetLife Afterschool Innovator Awards at the “Breakfast of Champions” to four organizations that have developed and implemented innovative afterschool practices. The awardees are profiled in Afterschool Innovations in Brief, a series of Issue Briefs developed by the Afterschool Alliance with funding from MetLife Foundation. They are: The After-School Corporation in New York; LA’s BEST in California; The Native Youth Club in South Dakota; and Lincoln Community Learning Centers in Nebraska.
