Lincoln Afterschool Program Receives Afterschool Innovator Award

*Parents, Educators, Students, City and State Leaders
Urge Congress to Increase Afterschool Funding*

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Afterschool Alliance and MetLife Foundation today recognized the Lincoln Community Learning Centers (CLC) in Lincoln, Nebraska as an Afterschool Innovator for linking families with their children’s schools to help boost student achievement. Lincoln Community Learning Centers is one of four organizations being honored at the “Breakfast of Champions” as an Afterschool Innovator. Each has been profiled in Afterschool Innovations in Brief, a series of Issue Briefs developed by the Afterschool Alliance with support from MetLife Foundation.

The Lincoln Community Learning Centers provide support and services to children, families and neighborhoods through collaborative partnerships that use local schools as centers for these services. The centers provide safe, supervised before and after school programs, weekend and summer enrichment programs, and many other supportive services for citizens of all ages.

Studies show that when parents and other family members are involved in children’s schools, the benefits include:

- higher grades and test scores;
- better attendance records and homework completion rates;
- higher graduation rates and higher postsecondary education enrollment;
- lower drop out rates;
- decreased negative behaviors such as alcohol and drug use and violence;
- an increase in positive attitudes and behaviors.
- better teacher morale and higher ratings of teachers by parents;
- better reputations of schools within the community;
- better performance of school programs that involve parents versus identical programs that do not include parents;
- better connection between parents, children and communities;
- increased support and services to families, including opportunities to improve family relationships; and
- improved relationships between parents and children.

The “Breakfast of Champions” is part of the seventh annual Afterschool for All Challenge which brings together hundreds of parents, educators, children, program directors and advocates from around the country for a series of events and meetings with members of Congress. The 2008 Challenge is co-sponsored by the National League of Cities and the Afterschool Alliance. Following the “Breakfast,” advocates met with their U.S. Senators and Representatives and congressional aides.

“Parents, children and communities rely on afterschool programs to keep kids safe, inspire them to learn and help working families,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “But federal funding isn’t keeping up with the demand for afterschool, and President Bush proposes to cut federal afterschool funding even further. We’re in our nation’s capital this week to honor afterschool champions and remind lawmakers that these cuts are short-sighted and counterproductive. All kids need the opportunities that afterschool programs provide. Bipartisan support in Congress defeated the last proposed cut to afterschool programs, and we are seeking bipartisan support again this year so we can counter the President’s proposal and bring quality afterschool programs to all children who need them.”

In February, President Bush proposed cutting the federal budget for afterschool programs by $281 million and converting the successful 21st Century Community Learning Centers afterschool initiative into a risky voucher system. If Congress agrees to his proposal, 300,000 students would lose access to afterschool programs.

The other organizations honored with MetLife Afterschool Innovator Awards are LA’s BEST in California, The After-School Corporation (TASC) in New York, and the Native Youth Club in South Dakota.

At the “Breakfast of Champions,” the Alliance also honored 16 individuals as Afterschool Champions. They are: Boise Mayor David Bieter; Columbia (SC) Mayor Bob Coble; St. Paul Mayor Christopher Coleman; Kacy Conley, YMCA of Central Maryland in Baltimore; Omaha Mayor Mike Fahey; Grand Rapids Mayor George Heartwell; Savannah Mayor Otis Johnson; Morgantown (WV) Mayor Ron Justice; Charlotte City Council Member James Mitchell; Missouri State Representative Danie Moore; New York City Commissioner of the Department of Youth and Community Development Jeanne Mullgray; San Francisco Mayor Gavin Newsom; Linda Robinson, Kentucky Department of Education; New Hampshire State Senator Kathleen Sgambati; Maxine Quintana, Denver Mayor’s Office for Education and Children; and Pennsylvania State Representative Jake Wheatley.
