Afterschool Alliance Names Bristol Afterschool Provider One of Just 20 'Afterschool Ambassadors' from Across Nation

Elizabeth Colby Will Work in New Hampshire and Nationally to Expand Afterschool

Washington, DC – The Afterschool Alliance today announced that Elizabeth Colby, Extended Learning Coordinator/Afterschool Director of the Newfound Area School District and NASD Project PROMISE Afterschool Program has been selected to serve as a 2011-2012 Afterschool Ambassador. She is one of just 20 local leaders from 17 states chosen for the honor this year. Each Ambassador will continue directing or supporting a local afterschool program while also serving a one-year Afterschool Ambassador term organizing public events, communicating with policy makers, and building support for afterschool programs.

“Quality afterschool programs are invaluable to students, families and communities,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “These programs keep kids safe, help working families and inspire students to learn. But in Washington, D.C. and all across the country, the afterschool programs that families rely on are being threatened by budget cuts and efforts to divert afterschool funds to other programs. We need to spread the word about the urgent need to make opportunities to attend afterschool programs available to all children who need them. Elizabeth will bring great skill and energy to that work in her role as an Afterschool Ambassador. I look forward to working with her to build even stronger support for afterschool programs among parents, business and community leaders, lawmakers and others.”

“I am delighted to have this chance to help increase support for afterschool programs, which give students opportunities to explore their interests and give parents the security that comes with knowing that their children are safe and supervised, with engaging, educational activities after the school day ends,” said Colby. “Afterschool programs are critical to students’ success in school, to families trying to surviving in this recession, and to America’s workforce in the future. We need to strengthen the afterschool programs we have and ensure that there is a program for every child who needs one.”

The Newfound Area School District Project PROMISE program has been in existence for the past eight years. It serves students K – 12. Colby has been a part of the 21st CCLC afterschool program at Newfound for the past eight years and has been working in the afterschool profession since 1988. Project PROMISE serves four community elementary sites, one regional middle school and one regional high school. More than six hundred students in the rural Newfound area participate each year in the afterschool program. Colby stated that through the collaboration with the local Tapply-Thompson Community Center and the Danbury Community Center Project PROMISE has provided high quality academic and enrichment activities for all grades.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance's 12th annual national rally for afterschool, to be held on October 20 this year. Last year, a million people participated in some 7,500 Lights On Afterschool events across the United States and at U.S. military bases worldwide. Afterschool programs are under intense pressure this year, with the Senate considering legislation that would divert some of the already limited afterschool funds to other programs.
