Knoxville's Drummond Selected as One of Just 15 'Afterschool Ambassadors' from Across Nation

Kelly Drummond Will Work in Tennessee and Nationally to Make Afterschool Available to More Students

Washington, DC – The Afterschool Alliance today announced that Kelly Drummond, Chief Administrative and Human Resource Officer at Boys & Girls Clubs of the Tennessee Valley and liaison for Boys & Girls Clubs Tennessee Alliance, has been selected to serve as a 2015-2016 Afterschool Ambassador. She is one of just 15 leaders from across the country to be chosen for the honor this year. Each Afterschool Ambassador will continue directing or supporting a local afterschool program while also serving the one-year Afterschool Ambassador term, organizing public events, communicating with policy makers, and building support for afterschool programs.

“We are so pleased to have Kelly serving as an Afterschool Ambassador this year,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “She will mobilize even more support for quality afterschool and summer learning programs among parents, business and community leaders, lawmakers, educators and others in Tennessee. Quality afterschool programs keep students safe, inspire them to learn and help working families. They offer young people hands-on, team-based learning opportunities, help with homework, science and technology activities, opportunities for sports and fitness, access to healthy snacks and meals, and much more. I look forward to working with Kelly this year to bring us closer to the day when every child will have the chance to participate in an afterschool program.”

“I am excited to be part of the Afterschool Alliance’s work to increase resources for afterschool programs, here and across the country,” said Drummond. “In my 15 years working with young people, I’ve seen firsthand how afterschool programs give students opportunities to explore their interests and discover their passions, while giving parents the peace of mind that comes with knowing that their children are safe and supervised, with engaging, educational activities, after the school day ends. I look forward to helping raise awareness about the growing need for out-of-school-time opportunities for all children and youth.”

Boys & Girls Clubs of the Tennessee Valley currently serves more than 7,500 children with quality, afterschool programming. Of the organization’s 19 Clubs, seven are school-based, four are in public housing, one is in Knox County Juvenile Court, one is church-based, and six are traditional settings. Because of the diversity and availability of Clubs across the four-county service area, Boys & Girls Clubs are accessible to young people who need them the most.

Understanding that afterschool time is the most critical, the Clubs help bridge the gap from school to home.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance's annual rally for afterschool, to be held on October 22 this year. Last year, 1 million people participated in some 8,000 Lights On Afterschool events across the United States and at U.S. military bases worldwide.

The 2015-2016 Afterschool Ambassadors are:

- Alabama: Dr. Michael Wilson, Principal, Glen Iris Elementary School in Birmingham;
- Colorado: Patrick Wilhelm, Site Coordinator, Scholars Unlimited in Denver;
- Connecticut: Mark Fopeano, Program Manager, Dwight Hall at Yale in New Haven;

- Virginia: Allyson Graul, Director of Youth Civic Engagement, Alternatives, Inc. in Fort Monroe;
- Washington: Beth Wyant, Program Coordinator, Northwest Community Action Center, a division of Yakima Valley FarmWorkers Clinic in Toppenish; and
- West Virginia: Kasey Carter, Executive Director, Communities In Schools of Greenbrier County in Lewisburg.

A large and growing body of evidence demonstrates improvements in attendance, behavior, academic achievement and more among children in afterschool programs. Researchers have also found that afterschool programs encourage increased parental involvement – an important building block for student success.

The 2014 “America After 3PM” household survey of more than 30,000 families, commissioned by the Afterschool Alliance, found that participation in afterschool programs increased to 10.2 million students nationwide, up from 6.5 million in 2004. But the unmet demand for afterschool programs has increased as well. Today, for every child in an afterschool program, there are two more whose parents say they would participate, if a program were available. One in five students in the United States today is unsupervised after the school day ends.
