Morristown, NJ's Haggerty Selected as One of Just 15 'Afterschool Ambassadors' in Country This Year

David Haggerty Will Work in New Jersey, Nationally to Increase Students' Access to Afterschool

Washington, DC – The Afterschool Alliance announced today that David Haggerty, Director of the Morristown Neighborhood House, a subsidiary of Cornerstone Family Programs, has been selected to serve as a 2017-2018 Afterschool Ambassador. He is one of just 15 leaders from across the nation chosen for the honor this year. Each Afterschool Ambassador will continue directing or supporting a local afterschool program while also serving a one-year Afterschool Ambassador term, organizing public events, communicating with policy makers and in other ways increasing support for afterschool and summer learning programs.

“We’re delighted that David will serve as an Afterschool Ambassador this year,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “He is exactly the kind of powerful champion we need at this time when federal funding for quality afterschool and summer learning programs is at risk. I know he will mobilize business, community and faith leaders, parents, educators and others to convince lawmakers to secure resources for the afterschool programs that keep kids safe, inspire them to learn and help working families. These programs offer hands-on learning opportunities, homework help, mentors, science and technology, healthy snacks and meals, sports and fitness, arts programming, college and job prep, and much more. We’re facing very real challenges this year, and more than a million students across the country could lose their afterschool programs. We will work together to stave off that threat.”

“I am thrilled to join in the Afterschool Alliance’s work to build support for afterschool programs,” said Haggerty. “In my 25 years working in the field, I’ve seen up close the many ways afterschool programs help students to explore their interests and discover their passions, while giving parents the peace of mind that comes with knowing their children are safe and supervised, with opportunities to learn and grow, after the school day ends. I look forward to raising awareness and support for the out-of-school-time opportunities all students need.”

At the Morristown Neighborhood House (the “Nabe”), improving the educational outlook for our 300 children is Job One in our afterschool programs in Morristown and Dover, NJ. We accomplish this through ever-increasing implementation of technology in the classroom, continued collaboration with the Morris School District and local corporations to offer state-of-the-art math and science education. We understand that in order to succeed academically our students need to embrace healthy eating, active lifestyles, and become involved in the arts and recreation. In addition to education, children at the Nabe receive professional dance, violin, and guitar classes, tournament level soccer, health and wellness activities, and many family friendly activities. Family stability is critical to academic success and involves employment opportunities, affordable housing, and strong community connections; all available to our families at the Nabe.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance's annual rally for afterschool, to be held on October 26 this year. Last year, 1 million people participated in some 7,500 Lights On Afterschool events across the United States and at U.S. military bases worldwide.

The America After 3PM household survey of more than 30,000 families, commissioned by the Afterschool Alliance, found that participation in afterschool programs has increased to 10.2 million students nationwide, up from 6.5 million in 2004. But the unmet demand for afterschool programs has increased as well. Today, for every child in an afterschool program, there are two more whose parents say they would participate, if a program were available. Unmet demand is especially high in rural communities and communities of concentrated poverty. One in five students in the United States today is unsupervised after the school day ends.

A large and growing body of evidence demonstrates improvements in attendance, behavior, academic achievement and more among children in afterschool programs. Researchers have also found that afterschool programs encourage increased parental involvement – an important building block for student success.

The Afterschool Alliance is a nonprofit public awareness and advocacy organization working to ensure that all children and youth have access to quality afterschool programs. More information is available at www.afterschoolalliance.org.

Morristown Neighborhood House (and its parent organization Cornerstone Family Programs) strengthens communities by helping people build better lives. Pre-school, after school, summer camp, recreation, tutoring, mentoring, and college preparation programs give children the best start in life and guide teens to successful adulthood. Parenting education, recreation, work force development, language, and skill-building programs support adults. Adult day care centers and caregiver education programs help older adults remain independent in their homes. CFP, founded in 1813, and MNH, founded in 1898, joined forces in 2013 to better serve the community.
