Alaska’s Havrilek Chosen to Be One of Just 15 ‘Afterschool Ambassadors’ in the Country This Year

Courtney Havrilek Will Work in Alaska and Nationally to Increase Access to Afterschool Programs

Washington, DC – The Afterschool Alliance today announced that Courtney Havrilek, Lead Coordinator of the Fairbanks School District’s 21st Century Community Learning Center After School Programs, has been selected to serve as an Afterschool Ambassador for the Afterschool Alliance in 2019-2020. She is one of just 15 leaders in the United States chosen for the honor this year. Ambassadors will continue their work supporting local afterschool programs while serving the one-year Afterschool Ambassador term, organizing public events, communicating with policy makers and community leaders, and in other ways increasing awareness and support for afterschool and summer learning programs.

“We are delighted that Courtney Havrilek will serve as an Afterschool Ambassador this year,” said Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant. “With federal funding for quality afterschool and summer learning programs at risk, we need strong advocates like Courtney. Her work will mobilize parents, educators and business, community and faith leaders, among others, to send the message that afterschool programs are vital to the future of our children, families, and communities. Afterschool programs keep kids safe, inspire them to learn and help give working families peace of mind. They offer hands-on learning opportunities, opportunities to think critically and collaborate, homework help, mentors, science and technology, healthy snacks and meals, sports and fitness, arts programming, college and job prep, and much more.”

“I am eager to join the Afterschool Alliance in building support for afterschool programs,” said Havrilek. “In my 22 years working in the field, I’ve seen time and again the extraordinary difference that afterschool makes in the lives of young people in Alaska. These programs help students explore their interests, discover their passions, and learn to communicate with peers and adults while giving parents the security that comes from knowing their children are safe and supervised, with opportunities to learn and grow after the school day ends. I look forward to building support for the out-of-school-time opportunities all students need.”

Fairbanks North Star Borough School District’s 21st Century Community Learning Centers serve about 1,000 students each year from Anne Wien, Denali, Hunter, Joy, North Pole and Ticasuk Brown Elementary schools; Ryan, Randy Smith and North Pole Middle Schools; and Lathrop High School. With a combined elementary summer program, the Elementary Academy of Science and Technology. They are primarily funded by a federal 21st Century Community
Learning Centers grant and by the Fairbanks North Star Borough School District. Youth in these programs have opportunities to learn and grow in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics, they receive homework help and tutoring as well as a variety of arts and recreation. All programs include certified teachers, tutors, enrichment instructors and community partners. Community partners include: Fairbanks Soil and Water Conservation District, 4H- Cooperative Extension, University of Alaska Museum of the North, Fairbanks Community Food Bank, University of Alaska Fairbanks Geophysical Institute and College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance’s annual rally for afterschool, which will celebrate its 20th anniversary this year. Most Lights On Afterschool events will be on or around Thursday, October 24. Last year, 1 million people participated in some 8,000 events across the United States and at U.S. military bases worldwide.

The America After 3PM household survey of more than 30,000 families, commissioned by the Afterschool Alliance, found that participation in afterschool programs has increased to 10.2 million students nationwide, up from 6.5 million in 2004. But the unmet demand for afterschool programs has increased as well. Today, for every child in an afterschool program, there are two more whose parents say they would participate, if a program were available. Unmet demand is especially high in rural communities and communities of concentrated poverty. One in five students in the United States today is unsupervised after the school day ends.

A large and growing body of evidence demonstrates improvements in attendance, behavior, academic achievement and more among children in afterschool programs. Researchers have also found that afterschool programs encourage increased parental involvement – an important building block for student success.
