Terre Haute's Ramseier Selected as One of Just 16 Afterschool Ambassadors in Country This Year

Eleanor Ramseier Will Work in Indiana and Across Nation to Make Afterschool and Summer Learning Programs Available to More Children and Youth

Washington, DC – Eleanor Ramseier, co-founder and executive director at Camp Navigate, has been selected to serve as a 2023 Afterschool Ambassador, the Afterschool Alliance announced today. She is one of just 16 leaders in the country chosen for the honor this year. Afterschool Ambassadors continue their work with local afterschool programs while serving a one-year Afterschool Ambassador term, organizing events, working with community leaders and policy makers, and in other ways increasing support for the afterschool and summer learning programs families rely on.

"We are absolutely delighted that Eleanor Ramseier will serve as a 2023 Afterschool Ambassador," Afterschool Alliance Executive Director Jodi Grant said. "While students and families need afterschool and summer learning programs more than ever, programs are facing significant challenges including staff shortages, funding shortfalls, and finding ways to meet the academic and social needs of students as they recover from the challenges the pandemic created. We need strong, creative champions to spread the word about the essential role afterschool programs play in keeping kids safe, inspiring them to learn, and giving parents peace of mind that their children are safe and supervised after the school day ends. Ramseier is poised to be just the kind of powerful advocate we need."

"I am looking forward to joining the Afterschool Alliance in growing support for afterschool and summer learning programs this year," said Ramseier. "I've seen up close the incredible ways these programs support students and families, and the critical supports and services they provide. That's even more important now, as we recover from the isolation and hardship the pandemic caused. Many of our kids have ground to make up and afterschool and out of school programs, such as summer camps, can help them do that. I'm so proud to be part of the afterschool movement and to have a chance to serve as an Afterschool Ambassador this year."

Camp Navigate serves the youth of West Central Indiana with a summer camp, afterschool programs, and an after-afterschool program. Each of these programs has the mission to teach young children skills that will prepare them for successful adulthood. The program practices servant leadership by providing opportunities for the children to meet a community need by planning and executing an event. It encourages healthy habits through appropriate snacks and meals, a Camp Running Club, and visiting professionals who instruct the children on personal health issues. Community partners include Rose Hulman Institute of Technology, Ivy Tech, Union Hospital, Indiana State University, United Way, the Wabash Valley Community Foundation, CenterPoint Energy, Duke Energy, Chick fil A, Thompson Thrift, local financial institutions, businesses, and individuals, with funding and facilitators presenting and involving the children with hands-on projects. Together these programs help students transition into higher educational arenas with a foundational understanding of employability skills as well as a solid knowledge of their personal worth to their home, community, and the world.

Each Ambassador will organize a major event for Lights On Afterschool, the Afterschool Alliance's annual rally for afterschool. Most of the thousands of local Lights On Afterschool events will be on or around Thursday, October 26, 2023.

Some 24.7 million U.S. children not in an afterschool program would be enrolled, if a program were available to them, according to a survey of nearly 1,500 parents commissioned by the Afterschool Alliance and conducted by Edge Research in May and June of 2022. That is the highest number ever recorded. Unmet demand for afterschool programs is significantly higher among Latino and Black children (at 60% and 54% respectively) than among children overall (49%). Cost is the top barrier to enroll, cited by 57% of parents as a reason for not enrolling their child. Ninety percent of parents rate the quality of the program their child attends as excellent (51%) or very good (39%).

A large and powerful body of evidence demonstrates improvements in grades, school attendance, behavior and more among children who participate in afterschool programs. Researchers have also found that students in afterschool programs are more engaged in school and excited about learning and develop critical work and life skills such as problem solving, teamwork, and communications.

Since its inception in 2017, Camp Navigate has since expanded its much-needed workforce readiness programs to serve even more students and campers through its afterschool and summer camp programs. Its mission of “Connecting students with employability skills and traditional values to ensure their successful futures” is now impacting over 175 afterschool students in public and private schools. As the largest single summer camp facility in West Central Indiana, serving over 274 campers in 2022, it continues to empower campers with character building and employability skills during these out-of-school months.
